Fundraising for Jump for Paws helps ensure RSPCA can rescue animals like Cruze

As soon as RSPCA Inspectors saw the photos, they knew Cruze had to be rescued. The 4-year-old American Staffordshire Terrier was so skinny and dirty he broke our hearts. He was just bones with fur stretched over them. His beautiful, sad face and big, soulful eyes told a horrible story.

"It takes one to two months of not having proper access to food to get to that state."

Fundraising for Jump for Paws helps ensure RSPCA can treat and heal animals like Cruze

It took weeks of slowly introducing food to Cruze to bring him up to a healthy weight. He needed treatment for ear infections and a painful gut parasite too. But through it all, Cruze was trusting and affectionate. Despite everything he had been through, Cruze was a sweet-natured pup whose mission seemed to be to get humans to fall in love with him.

Rehome

Fundraising for Jump for Paws will ensure animals like Cruze can find the love they deserve

After his body filled out and his health improved, the final step in Cruze's recovery was to fill his beautiful big heart with love. Cruze found his forever home.

Now, he gets all the affection and care he deserves, snuggling on the couch with his human brother and asking for belly rubs – which he gets plenty of!

Donate to Jump for Paws today to ensure animals like Cruze will never be left without love.
